The President's message "takes well in New York" says a leading journalist from that section.

The Samuel J. Randall Club, the principal Democratic organization at Allegheny City, Pa., has unanimously endorsed Cleveland's message.

Even the Philadelphia Times, one of Samuel J. Randall's foremost supporters, and right in the home of the Protectionists, says "tariff revision is certain."

Another "bucket-shop" concern has closed up and quit business—McCampbell & Co., of Louisville. It is pretty hard to have the shops close up just when the players begin to win a little.

We have it on pretty good authority that Will P. Campbell, formerly of this city, but now of Maysville, has purchased the Cynthiana Democrat. Financially we wish him success, but politically the reverse.—Augusta Republican.

"An official analysis of the last census discloses that of the 17,392,099 persons in the United States not engaged in gainful work (now 20,000,000) about 95 per cent. can not be subjected to foreign competition, and about 5 per cent. are all who can be, or, rather, whose employers can."—Daniel Manning.

The Republican says that the branch bucket-shop of Hodgen & Miller, at Maysville, "has heretofore been profitable both to the firm and to those who speculated in it." Will the Republican be so good as to furnish a diagram explaining how both parties to a bet managed to extract profit from it?—Louisville Times.

We venture the prediction that a compromise tariff measure will now be agreed upon. Cleveland's message places the two wings of the Democratic party in a position to "flop" together. Each element can give up half it has been contending for, and it will be a back down on each side, and nobody hurt. Cleveland knows what he is up to, and the country will realize it before long.

Stock and Crops.

Dogs recently killed four sheep and crippled twenty for Rees Davis, near Mt. Gilead.

Tobacco has put about $500,000 into the pockets of Bath County people the past year.

The Owenton Democrat notices the sale of 40,000 pounds of tobacco at from 14 to 19 cents.

Some farmers in Fayette have engaged their tobacco crops for the next two seasons, at 10 cents per pound.

Thomas Lashbrook, of Lewisburg precinct, sold his crop of tobacco, of 15,000 pounds, at 20 cents from ground up.

Newcomb & Sharpe, of Sherburne, have purchased over 100,000 pounds of tobacco at 15 cents, and will prize it.

Wm. Calvert sold his crop of tobacco raised on 3 1/2 acres—5,050 pounds, to Solomon R. Berison for $808.—Carlisle Mercury.

At Wm. Lindsay's sale, near Millersburg, a pair of mules sold for $299, hogs at $4, and one-half of the product of 8 acres of tobacco for $430.

A Missouri breeder of fine sheep has a three-year old Merino ram for which he has refused $1,000. This high price is rarely obtained for a Merino outside of Vermont.

Liggett & Myers, tobacco manufacturers of St. Louis, have their agents out buying the crop of 1888. They are engaging the tobacco to be raised next year at 10 cents a pound all round.

The wheat is not looking in first-class shape to meet the rigors of winter, but possibly the dry weather has caused it to sink its roots deep in its search for moisture, which will be a point in its favor.—Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

Woman and Her Diseases

is the title of a large illustrated treatise, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., sent free to any address for ten cents in stamps. It teaches successful self-treatment.

A Card From W. W. Ball.

To "Many Citizens"—Your very flattering call upon me to become a candidate for Councilman from the Fifth ward at the approaching city election is highly appreciated. The duties devolving upon me as County Clerk, and other business matters in which I am interested, are such as would prevent my giving the office of Councilman the attention it should have. For this reason, I decline to make the race. Respectfully,
W. W. BALL.

The Baptists and the American Bible Society.

Mr. Editor: I am pained to see from the communication of the Rev. R. B. Garrett in Friday's issue of the BULLETIN that my address before the Maysville and Mason County Bible Society, on the evening of December 4th, has given offense to my friends of the Baptist Church. It was my object in that address to give a succinct account of the work of various bible societies in the present century, especially of the American Bible Society, and it very naturally occurred to me, in the course of my remarks, to speak of the secession of the Baptist Church from that grand institution which they, along with the other principal protestant denominations, had helped to establish. I knew that it was a delicate subject to handle, and my time was limited, but I hoped to be able to present the facts in the case without doing them injustice, and without provoking an assault. The facts, as presented in my address, I am sure, were concisely and correctly stated without injustice to any one, but that I did not escape from provoking an assault appears from the communication mentioned above. My language concluding this portion of the address which seems to have irritated Mr. Garrett, was not intended as an attack upon the Baptists, but as a vindication of the course of the American Bible Society, which I heartily approve.

Mr. Garrett appears to think that it may be inferred from my language in reference to Dr. Judson and his coadjutors in the work of translating the New Testament into Burmese, that they either knowingly "violated the rules of the society," or else "obtained money under false pretenses." My language does not willingly yield either in inference. Such a thought was not in my mind at the time the lines referred to were penned, and never has been, and I never heard such an accusation charged against those noble and self-sacrificing brethren. My words only mean, that when the character of the translation made by those missionaries at the expense of the society became known, the Board of Managers refused to approve of it, and declined to make further appropriations from the funds of the society for printing other versions made on the same principles.

In regard to the "American Bible Union," Mr. Garrett appears to deny that it was a Baptist society. But it was certainly controlled by Baptists, and "its founders seceded from the American and Foreign Bible Society (Baptist) May 23, 1850, when that body decided that it was not province or duty to revise the English Bible." I am aware of the fact that the Union wisely "employed the aid of scholars of nine evangelical denominations" in its effort to revise the common English version, but it was always understood to be a purely Baptist movement. Dr. Phillip Schaaf, an eminent Presbyterian scholar, was one of those employed to assist in this work. He is the American editor of the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia, and in Volume I. of that remarkable work I read these words, which were written by one of the associate editors, must, I suppose, have passed under the eyes of the chief editor himself: "American Bible Union was organized in 1850 by those members of the American and Foreign Bible Society (Baptist) who demanded that the principle of circulating 'such versions only as are conformed as nearly as possible to the original text' should be applied to the English version; i. e. that version itself should be revised." And further in the same article: "The Union disclaims very vigorously the epithet sectarian; but it is believed that if the English version had used improve and its cognates for baptist and its cognates, there would have been no such Union."

But I do not propose to be drawn into a controversy on this subject, and do not think it necessary to say anything further. The two Baptist Bible Societies have ceased to exist, and that fact of itself, it appears to me, confirms my remark that they had not attained to much success. Those words were, of course, used only in a comparative sense. While those societies lived they did a commendable work, but now that they are dead—well, let us all say: Requiescant in pace! It is to be hoped now that this great denomination of Christians, who I freely and gladly admit have always been forward and zealous in presenting the gospel to the people, may soon see their way clear, to assume their former place among their sister churches, and join in a united effort to promote the efficiency of the American Bible Society.

Respectfully yours,
RUSSELL CECIL.
